

Harpists To Be Feature Of Next Sunday Vespers At Memorial Auditorium

Gertrude Peterson and Lucy Lewis Will Present Program to Music Lovers

By R. D. McINTYRE
Gertrude Peterson and Lucy Lewis, harpists, will be the featured attraction at the Sunday afternoon musicale in Memorial hall Dec. 8, at 4 p. m.

Mrs. Peterson and Miss Lewis received their musical education in California where they studied with Alfred Kautner, the leading harpist of the Pacific Coast. They were attracted toward the "Harp-Duo" idea as a result of the fascinating tonal color which can be obtained by the playing of two harps together. Their repertoire includes compositions by masters of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, romantics of the nineteenth and contemporary composers. In addition to two-harp selections their programs include harp solos and groups for harp and piano, affording an unusual variety of mood and color.

Miss Peterson and Miss Lewis appeared in Lexington several years ago before members of the Woman's club of Central Kentucky. The program to be presented is as follows:

- I. Pavane....Composer Unknown (XVI Century)
Gavotte des moutons.....

Bids will be opened today for the underground work on the central heating plant to be constructed at the northwest corner of the present structure occupied by the Department of Buildings and Grounds, according to information from Henry Crutcher, superintendent of the Buildings and Grounds department.

The heating plant will occupy a space of approximately 155 feet by 123 feet, including a 20-foot alleyway between it and the Buildings and Grounds warehouse. This area will be made available by reducing the warehousing space in that structure on the Upper street side. This project is made possible by Federal funds amounting to approximately $225,000.

Other campus improvements now under way are the erection of a reinforced concrete wall, extending 1,100 feet, 600 feet to be a retaining wall on the south side of the athletic field, and 500 feet extending along the north side of the field, replacing the present wooden fence; a press box, capable of accommodating 70 press writers, will supplant the present inadequate structure topping the south side of the stadium. Included in the new press box will be facilities for broadcasting, for a public address system, besides the necessary tables for the press agents. A new running track will replace the present one; Sukey will be provided with new facilities also, under this project, costing $40,000 from the government appropriation.

CATS READY FOR INITIAL GAME OF SEASON TONIGHT

Revised Edition of Team of Last Year Will Take Floor Against Georgetown Quintet

ONE SOPH TO BE IN UK STARTING LINEUP

Carlisle, Hagan, Lewis, Donohue and Anderson Will Probably Start

By JOE QUINN
After almost eight weeks of intensive preparation, Coach Adolph Rupp's varsity basketball combination will face Georgetown college, tonight, in Alumni gym in the season's opening game. The Kentucky freshman squad will oppose the Georgetown frosh in the preliminary, which is scheduled to get underway at 7 o'clock.

Coach Rupp has not been over-extended with the way in which the varsity squad has been performing in practice but since several of the football squad have reported this week, prospects have brightened up considerably. "Red" Hagan, Jim Goforth, Duke Ellington, "Red" Craig, Nick Lutz, Bob Davis, Sherman Hinkle and Bert Johnson have donned basketball uniforms and are pushing the veterans for positions.

Joe "Red" Hagan, particularly, has been impressive in this week's scrimmage sessions. Although only a sophomore, Hagan has had considerable experience. He was a member of the St. Xavier high school team that went to the National Catholic tournament two years ago and was named a member of the Catholic All-America team that year. He was one of the mainstays of last season's frosh squad which had a fine record.

Hagan seems certain to be one of the regular front court starters and he will probably team up with Ralph Carlisle, who is starting his second season as a member of Kentucky's varsity. As an understudy to Dave Lawrence last year, he did not have much opportunity to display his ability, but has come into form rapidly this fall and will (Continued on Page Four)

WIT AND HUMOR

ABSENCE PENALTIES

Last Friday witnessed a double hangover at the University—a physical hangover in the case of the students and a time-worn hangover in the form of regulation. We refer to the highly respected but not pleasantly received regulation of the University in the form of penalties for cuts after a holiday.

This rule concerning the adding of hours to the requirements for graduation as a penalty for not attending classes on the day immediately following a holiday represents discipline in the nth degree. A more severe penalty will not be found in any school in the country, not even the highly disciplinary military schools. It approaches, if it does not include itself in, that category of the noble experimental—the eighteenth amendment—in that it attempts to regulate the very habits and tastes of its subjects.

Is then such disciplinary necessary or even called for in the American college and university of today? The students in attendance at the University have come through at least twelve years of preparatory schools and even in the most elementary ones they have not been subjected to rules approaching this one in discipline. If the student has not learned in this length of time the value of attending classes when he is able, there is little to be gained from trying to force it into him at such a late hour. College is supposed to be a place where one learns to become the master of his own destiny. If he is to be continually shoved about during this period and treated as a babe in arms, whose every action must be guided, would it not be better if he did not come to college at all? Certainly he would profit considerably more by entering upon a career where he would at least learn enough of the responsibilities of life to shift for himself.

There is yet another side to the question—that of the worthwhileness of attending classes when one is neither physically in condition or mentally prepared. A visit to any of the classes assembled Friday would have convinced anyone that the majority of their constituency were neither prepared on the topic of the day nor in condition to absorb any knowledge which the professor might offer them. In addition there is a touch of irony in the fact that the university through its alumni association urged the students to attend the Thanksgiving dance the night before, and then required those very students, whom it had itself immediately caused to lose sleep, to attend classes the next day.

The futility of attending classes Friday is therefore confirmed—nothing in the way of knowledge was gained from attending classes and the fatigue of those in attendance was only increased. Increased to such an extent that the University might almost be held liable for the large number of colds and near-pneumonia contracted by students principally due to lack of sleep, especially in view of the fact that the student body is watched over so carefully in other ways by means of rules and regulations.

In conclusion we would unreservedly go on record for the repeal of the rule concerning penalties for absence from classes after a holiday, in view of the utter futility and uselessness of such form of discipline.

WIT AND HUMOR

That great classification, the enjoyment of human nature, divides itself generally into two categories, wit and humor. Both, in the background of nations, states and communities have played an important part in easing the populace over the "rough spots" of life.

The former is certainly prominent enough on our campus. Our college wags indulge in it to the nth degree, especially in the form of the proverbially lowest form of wit, the pun. "Pun my word, 'tis true!" In fact the presence of these wisecracks often becomes obnoxious to the point of dislike.

Ah, but alas, how lacking the latter category is in our extra curriculum! Tongues may wag and wisecracks may fly, but in the end we have nothing but wit in its many and varied forms.

In an effort to extricate humor from its hiding place in the souls of the members of the student body, Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journal fraternity, will sponsor the publication of a humor magazine. This leaflet will cater strictly to the highest in the field of humor and will have all the attributes of a high quality fun magazine. "Smut" will be distinctly taboo. Contests will be held to secure valuable articles for publication. In short, every effort will be made to give to the student body a big-time collegiate humor publication. Watch for it!

ADVERTISERS INITIATE

Alpha Delta Sigma, national professional advertising fraternity, held initiation services for seven men Tuesday evening in McVey hall. The following men were received into the organization: Alfred Vogel, James Hagler, Chieky Penn, Bert Hallenberg, Ralph Huerst, Steve Featherston and Ross Chepeleff.

PROGRAMS MAILED OUT

Hoi Polloi

By BOB HESS

Out of town, so it looks like if it rains we will have to take the piece of Night and Day in this case. This was kinda unexpected so if the dirt isn't quite up to par, please excuse.

The Poses

Have you all seen a little gal walking around the campus with brown eye so big that there is hardly room for the nose and mouth on her face. In a modified form, she looks just like a big Jersey cow in reference to those big eyes, of course. She is KD Pances Sled, known to some at Satchel. She has one of the smoothest lines yet, and isn't the least bit particular who is at the receiving end of it. So, to you, Frances we toss this week's reeve, because you can keep so many guys guessing and because you have the quaintest way of "crying" the local Don Juans, so as to make them all think that they are "on top."

The Fights

The intramural fights are well under way. Boxing, wrestling and remarks from the spectators—they are all very interesting.

After Pete Kurachek won his first match, he jumped out of the ring and dashed over to one side where Eleanor Steele was waiting to offer him congratulations. Unimpressed, Sam Potter was on the sidelines making love or telling mountain fables stories to Velma Hardesty. Velma seems to have run the gamut of footballers. One of her former admirers, Bob Sherman, seems to have strayed off in the direction of Clara Bush... Monday night, Ref. Shively got hit and kicked. Wonder if he has his finger nails checked before each bout. The boxing ref appears to be slightly reluctant about breaking the boxes in a clinch. Who wouldn't, with fists belonging to such muscle men as Bob Forsythe and Bob Davis flying around... Noticed that Hargis Hughes has started a courting campaign directed against Mary Flowers. Bill Holter war with Forsythe's true love, Helen Irvine... When the first punched nose of the bouts started a spurt blood, some gal remarked "Oh, goodie, goodie. Look at the blood. I love it. Break his back!" looked around and it was Helen Rich, who was making all of these very timely remarks... Heard some fellow saying that politics isn't enter into the judges' decision. Some fellows aren't content if they can't try to find fault with everything about them. What a big bang they must be getting out of life... The high light of Tuesday evening was when Scrappy Curry in the ring, tried to get his robe off over his gloves. He wrestled with it for a while, and finally gave up.

Splash! The Phi Taus herein wish to state, in response to the crack made by the Sigmans active at week once thinking the matter of betting on a ping pong match between the respective champs of both houses that they, the Phi Taus, considered themselves as too gentlemanly to force the Sigmans to take out a third mortgage on their house to pay off the bet.

A Tribute

Gummy, the popular house boy at the Triangle house, has been working faithfully for the boys for over ten years. He has the faculty of knowing right where to put the boys' pajamas, which have been thrown helter-skelter by the lads when in a rush for an eight o'clock class. If you have ever attended any social function at the Trigle's country estate, you have seen Gummy tap dance. He's right up with Bill Robinson in this respect. So, to you, Gummy, we tip our hats.

FLASH! Bob Gaitskill threatened a law suit to recover damages for humiliation due to a letter written to him that was published in this column last Tuesday. He said that he would settle out of court, and asked only one thing. That is that Laby Jackson's new nickname be published. He tells us that it is "Baby-Baby-Boo." Now ain't that cute!

Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde
Ann Stevenson says that college boys are just like Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. They have an opposite personality when in the company of girls as to their personality when around boys. Umm. That's interesting. Wonder if she had anyone in particular in mind.

Wildcats in Shape For Georgetown Go

probably get the call at one of the forwards tonight.
Garland Lewis will start at center with Warfield Donohue and Captain Andy Anderson at guards. All three of these men are veterans and provide the nucleus for this Wildcat team. Lewis, a great ball-handler and good shot, along with Anderson and Donohue, two of the best defensive men in the country, will provide a balance for the new men at forwards.

Big Jim Goforth, Duke Ellington, Billy Spicer, Corland Bliss, Bob Taylor, J. Rice Walker and the other newcomers from the football ranks are certain to see a lot of action tonight as Coach Rupp is anxious to get a line on his material playing in competition.

Coach Bob Evans, Georgetown Tigers, who have been opening game opponents of the Wildcats for several years, have not had much opportunity for practice because of their football schedule but expect to put up a stiff battle here tonight. The Tigers have practically a veteran team returning and may cause the 'Cat's some trouble before the tilt is over.

Kentucky's fresh squad, under the direction of Coach Paul McBrayer, has been drilling daily for three weeks and in pretty good condition. It is going to give Coach McBrayer plenty of trouble picking out a starting team from the host of material he has been handling. The Georgetown frosh are reported to have a strong team, although their squad is small.

The probable starting lineup:
KENTUCKY GEORGETOWN
Carlisle Turner
Hagan Green
Lewis Powell
Anderson Clark
Donohue Morgan

however, the Botany department has hopes of utilizing them to add to their present inadequate facilities.

Since the erection of a Student Union building now seems to be a reality, interested students have been wondering just where it may be located. According to information from Mr. Critcher, there are two major locations under discussion: the first, advocated by the superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, is that it be erected just north of the main entrance to the University, facing Limestone street. The second, favored by several other campus officials, is that it be located in the area between the library and the football stadium. However, the final decision is still under debate.

Tonight, Kentucky's 1935-36 model basketball machine will roll out onto the floor of Alumni gym for its initial performance before the home folks. This model has been eight weeks in the making and tonight Coach Rupp will give it a trial spin against the Tigers of Georgetown College.

It has only been during the past week that Coach Rupp has shown the slightest sign of optimism and even now he isn't exactly brimming over with enthusiasm. But he is somewhat more hopeful about his prospects now that he has a full squad to work with daily.
Before the arrival of several members of the football squad on the basketball scene, there was not much pep in the court candidates and the daily workouts were getting a little dull. Now, with the advent of six or seven more good candidates, the men who were getting sloppy in their work are forced to keep on their toes to hold their jobs.

With a tough schedule looming up, the whole squad will have to be on their toes all the time, to get through it without mishap. This year's team will be the first in several seasons that the Wildcats have not had an individual star around whom the attack was usually constructed.

Three years ago, Coach Rupp had Forrest "Aggie" Sale, twice All-America center-forward as his ace, along with Ellis Johnson. The following year, John "Frenchy" Demolsey, free-wheeling expert from Walton, led the 'Cat scorers with consistent outbursts of field goals. Last season, as most of you remember, it was Leroy "Big Ed" Edwards, whom many critics acclaimed as the greatest of the three, who acted as sparkplug of Kentucky scoring sprees.

This year, without any one player in the spotlight, it will make for a smoother, better balanced ball club. There can be no depending upon the other man to do the scoring and no letting down. There will always be someone waiting to step into the position of one of the regulars should he start to go stale, as the Wildcats will have a large group of very capable substitutes, who will be waiting for their opportunity to prove their worth.

Tonight, then, will mark the opening of the new basketball season. Some "experts" believe that Kentucky will be below par this season. Personally, we do not think so, but that remains to be seen.

Over at the gym annex, four nights a week, one of the features of the annual intramural competition is now taking place. It's the boxing and wrestling show, now in the preliminary stages, which has been playing to large audiences all this week.

C. W. Hackensmith is again in charge of the event and as usual is doing a good job. "Hack" has gradually built up this annual event until it is now the most popular event on the intramural program. The fraternities really take a big interest.
